BUSINESS IMMIGRATION

Business immigrants include self-employed persons, entrepreneurs, and investors, along with their dependents. Self-employed persons intend to establish a business that will create an employment opportunity for themselves. An entrepreneur intends to establish, purchase or invest in a business in Canada which will create at least one job for Canadians. An investor must make a minimum investment in a Canadian business which will contribute to employment opportunities for Canadians.

ASSISTED RELATIVES

Prior to 1993, Assisted Relatives were brothers, sisters etc. of Canadian citizens or permanent residents who required a sponsorship in order to qualify. In Feb./93, the criteria for qualifying as an assisted relative were revised. At the same time, the requirement to be sponsored by a Canadian relative was dropped. This resulted in a change in definition as to include all eligible relatives, and not as was formerly the case, only those who were sponsored.
